

International Law

Written by Ahmad Nasser

Tuesday, 12 August 2008 22:33 - Last Updated Saturday, 09 January 2010 06:08

The firm's international law practice is comprised of an array of legal services, including but not limited to, acquisitions, joint ventures, facility establishment, insurance coverage, contract negotiation, labor and employment law, commercial litigation, tax law, real estate law and immigration issues.

In addition to traditional litigation and transactional services, Fakh Law provides its international clients with added value business services such as referrals to lending institutions and professional service firms and introductions to key business organizations.

Call Us Today to speak to one of our attorneys!!